CONGRESSIONAL HAPPENINGS IN WASHINGTON

By CLARENCE J. BROWN
Member of Congress,
Seventh Ohio District

Following the custom that has grown during recent years, Congress is observing Holy Week. The House is in recess until Monday, April 14th, and the Senate will have but one or two skeleton sessions during the week. The Congressional recess will give many members of Congress an opportunity to return to their states and districts for a few days, and to learn what the home folks are thinking. Despite the war hysteria that prevails in Washington and along the Atlantic seaboard, it is believed that great majority of the legislators will without question find that their constituents do not want the United States to become involved in war.

Last week the House adopted a resolution, with only one dissenting vote, authorizing the Military Affairs Committee and the Naval Affairs Committee to conduct investigations of the conduct of the National Defense Program. The committees were specifically authorized to investigate the strike and labor disturbances in national defense industries, as well as to look into defense contracts, cantonnement construction costs, and many other angles of the defense program. The committees are instructed to report their findings to the House and are already hard at work on the tough and hard assignment given them.

The seizure, on orders of the President, of German, Italian and Danish ships in American harbors last week is considered by students of the international situation here as simply one more step toward war. While the ship seizure was legal, it did bring strong protests from the Axis Powers. These protests have been ignored by the American government, and prosecution ordered of the seamen attached to the seized ships for acts of sabotage to the vessels. As a result of evidence submitted that the sabotage of Italian ships was by order of an official of the Italian Embassy, Secretary of State Hull late last week officially requested the Italian government to recall their Naval Attache. This incident may lead to further diplomatic actions and finally culmination in the severance of diplomatic relations. The parallel is being drawn between this recent development and those of 1916 and 1917, when the withdrawal of Military and Naval Attaches of the German government was demanded, leading to the final result well known to all.

To convoy or not to convoy seems to be the most important question now before the Administration. Within a short time the question must be answered. If American warships are to convoy merchant vessels destined for England, they must, of course protect such merchant vessels against attack by the enemy. Otherwise the convoy would be useless. Protection against the enemy means a sea fight—and a sea fight means that America is in the war.

Two Infants Age
Left Motorless
By Sudden Death

Mrs. Lorraine McPherson, 29, residing on East Xenia ave., in the Riggo apartments, was found dead about 9:30 Wednesday morning. She was found sitting in a chair, death due to heart attack evidently coming suddenly, although it is known she has suffered from the ailment the past six months. She had been engaged in her usual household duties from all appearances, as there was no one about other than two infant children.

Mrs. Belling, who resided on the second floor heard cries from one of the children that she thought unusual and she went down stairs to call. Entering she found Mrs. McPherson sitting in her chair, lifeless. Dr. Donald Kyle was called, but life had passed. The husband Raymond McPherson is employed in Dayton and was at work when notified. The family moved here two weeks ago from New Jasper.

The deceased was born in Hillaboro, O., the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Leininger, who survive with a sister, Mrs. Raymond Medsker, Hillaboro, and a brother, Elwood Leininger, Xenia and two infant children, James William, aged 22 months, and Patricia Ann, aged 8 months. The deceased was a member of the First Church of Christ in Xenia.

The body was removed to the Need Funeral Home, Xenia, where the funeral will be held Saturday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock. Burial in Woodlawn Cemetery.

Dayton Presbytery
To Meet Tuesday

The annual Spring meeting of Dayton Presbytery will be held in the New Jersey Presbyterian Church, Carlisle, beginning at 9:00 a. m., Tuesday, April 15, and continue in session until late afternoon. The Rev. Ralph H. Johnson, Middletown, Moderator, will deliver the sermon and preside during the business session.

Four commissioners to the General Assembly, which will meet for a week in St. Louis, beginning May 22, are to be elected. Sixteen delegates to the meeting of the Ohio Presbyterian Synod, meeting for two days at Wooster, beginning June 23, are also to be chosen. Half of these delegates will be ministers and half laymen.

The committee on Christian Education, the Rev. David H. Dean, Xenia, Chairman, will present for examination Hugh Bean Evans, Dayton, as a candidate for licensure as a minister. The Rev. D. Roland Kennedy, who is accepting calls from the Overpeck and Seven Mile Presbyterian churches, will be received from the Ozark Presbytery and arrangements made for his installation as pastor of these congregations.

Sixty ministers and lay delegates from the forty-two local churches in the eight counties of the district are expected. The Rev. James J. Mentzer, host pastor, will report for the hospitality committee and the women of the Carlisle church will serve the luncheon. Officers of Presbytery, besides the Moderator, include the Rev. Benjamin N. Adams, Cedarville, Vice-Moderator; the Rev. Charles L. Plymate, Dayton, Stated Clerk; the Rev. W. Howard Lee, Yellow Springs, Permanent Clerk, and the Rev. George Conner, Millville, Temporary Clerk.

Hornaday Resigns;
Then Asks Recall

Prosecutor Marcus Shoup has issued an opinion that when Justice J. T. Hornaday resigned to the Miami Twp. Trustees, which was accepted, remains out of office, regardless of the fact he had asked to withdraw the resignation at a later date.

The trustees named Thomas Donley, former mayor, and Hornaday refused to turn over the books to the Trustees. Then the opinion of Prosecutor Shoup was asked for.

It is claimed Hornaday, as Justice, and Constable Harry Stevens disagreed over fees, and a state examiner was called and Hornaday made good the demands. Donley has already filed his bond as Justice.

Farmers Seek Labor
For Spring Work

Many farmers are now on the hunt for experienced farm labor due to the backward season for early plowing. The situation will be worse by mid-summer as industry will draw heavily on rural labor by that time. In addition many farm boys will be called to camp. We hear that many owners of small farms on the western side of the county have given up production of early crops and accepted plows in Dayton fact rises at high wages.

LOCAL NEWS

Cedarville Twp. had two students in the list: David Wallace Bradfute and Keith McCullough Wright. The examinations in the county were under the direction of County Superintendent H. B. Pickering.

Georgia Draft Board
Takes Whip Hand

There is but one draft board in Mitchell County, Georgia, the Roosevelt adopted home state. A dispatch states that Chairman W. B. Grant, announces that all draftees in a county have been placed in class 3-A rating— indefinite deferment—to all men regardless of physical condition or other consideration—until the administration halts strikes in this county.

When questioned as to authority Grant stated that the board had such authority and would continue to stand by the order until the government takes action to stop strikes.

State headquarters questions the Grant attitude but Grant defies the state to act against the board. Grant continues:

"When men can strike for $8 a day while our boys are going to camp for $21 a month, there is something wrong with the state."

This week a Cleveland, O., board displays its teeth along the same line. Many city boards have been abusing the classification plan by deferring a large percent of conscripts. It is said the rural boards are sending in a larger percent of draftees to camps according to population than many urban counties.

The law under which the draft was created leaves consideration of each boy up to the local board. Many local boards have appealed to Washington for a uniform plan for all states and counties but this has been ignored.

Eleven Injured In Sunday Collision

Eleven persons were injured in a head-on automobile collision early Sunday night on Route 42 near Wilberforce.

A car driven by Mrs. Edna Baber, 42, white, and one driven by Herman Mills, 42, negro, Yellow Springs, collided, with injuries to the eleven occupants of the two cars. All were negroes except Mrs. Baber, who sustained bruises and serious right limb injury. With her were two men and a woman, all being cut and bruised.

In the Yellow Springs car it is said not one of the seven men and a woman escaped some cuts and bruises. One woman was in a critical condition and taken to the Miami Valley Hospital in Dayton. Two ambulances were required to haul the injured to the McCallan Hospital for treatment.

Fourteen persons were injured in motor car accidents over the week-end in the county.

F.D.R. To Veto Parity
Increase Is Report

The vote in the Senate last Friday when an amendment to the agricultural bill was adopted over the opposition of the Roosevelt administration, the parity price for certain farm products would have been increased from $212,000,000 to $450,000,000. The bill had passed the House with the first amount as the limit of total payments and the measure now goes back with a joint conference. If the administration forces cannot hold down the House vote to $212,000,000, and the House approves the Senate amount, it is said Roosevelt will veto the measure. There would be speculation as to what would follow. The Senate held the farmers were not being treated on a basis equal to industry and war profits unless the amount was $450,000,000.

County Draft Board
Picks Eleven Men
For Replacements

The Greene County Draft Board has selected eleven men to go to Fort Thomas, Ky., Tuesday, April 14, as replacements to fill out the sixth and eighth quotas.

The men will report at 9 a. m. and leave at 10 a. m. by bus for Fort Thomas. They are: John Henry Franks, Fairfield, Order No. V-726; Charles Marland Stultz, S. Charleston, R. R. 1, No. V-1691-A; Charles Lester Goodman, Osborn, R. R. 1, No. 896; Joseph Harold Sipe, Osborn, R. R. 1, No. 784; Kenneth Leroy Melvin, Yellow Springs, R. R. 1, No. 754; Kenneth Joseph Hayslip, Xenia, R. R. 2, No. 787; Leroy James Dalley, Clifton, No. 789; Albert Linden Gray, Jr., Fairfield, No. 779; Loren Eldon Brock, Jamestown, R. R. 1, No. 781; John Henry Payton, Yellow Springs, No. 784.

A replacement for the eighth call will be Gavard Lamar Ames, Osborn, No. 410. The county board is still delinquent nine men, who comprised the board's tenth quota. No order for replacements on that call has been received, however.

First Armored
Division Passes
Here Friday

The 1st section of the Armored Division of 600 officers and 3,700 enlisted men to form the 4th Armored Division at Pine Camp, New York, will leave Camp Knox, Ky., April 10 and will pass through here April 11. The first night out will be Hamilton Fair Grounds, and will come by way of Middletown, through Franklin to Waynesville on Route 42. The division is headed for Pine Camp, N. Y.

The division passing here will number 450 enlisted men and fifteen officers. The equipment numbers 97 scout cars, trucks and kitchens. The transport trains leave Camp Knox by rail April 14 when each of six trains with 36 officers and 504 enlisted men will go by rail. The group arrives there at 9:30 A. M.

Pine Camp is located in the gateway to the Adirondacks and the Thousand Islands recreation area on the St. Lawrence River, about 20 miles from Lake Ontario.

FIRST SUMMER DAY

Following rains over the week-end this section had the first taste of real summer when the mercury reached 76 Tuesday afternoon. Farmers are busy plowing and gardeners are rushing planting. The wheat and grass have taken on new life following the warm spell.

BASE PRICE
FOR 4 FARM PRODUCTS

The turn of events in crop control over a period of ten days when great surpluses were turned into zero figures by the AAA managers in Washington reminds one of the popular song; "The Man on the Flying Trapeze."

While county managers of the AAA were out preaching to farmers the necessity of "quotas" for wheat and corn and regimentation of the farmer to the extent that where acreage over a stipulated amount would result in federal prosecution, farmers over the nation were flooding official Washington with letters and telegrams by the hundred thousand protesting any kind of quota.

Farmers have discovered that the quota plan was but a method of holding down production to get better prices while industry was being paid by the government to expand and in addition given war contracts with profits from one hundred to five hundred per cent over market prices. It was the thousands of protests that caused the AAA to juggle the figures and announce a new plan.

The announcement over the air on Thursday evening last, gave notice that hog prices would be "pegged" at $9 but the next day another report fixed the same price as the base price, there being a wide difference in meaning of the two terms in commercial circles.

Base prices for corn were fixed at 61 cents under the loan program. Loans to be made on similar terms as at present. Producers of corn can increase acreage up to their usual total, without receiving corn payments and no quota for corn for the 1941 crop.

No mention has been made as to what will be done with the proposed wheat quota and farmers could participate in the wheat and grass program as at present, the wheat and corn not being tied together.

The base price for butter was 31c a pound; chickens 15c a pound and eggs 22c a dozen. The government proposes to purchase great quantities of dairy products "in storage" to ship to England. Last Friday the government purchased 8,000,000 pounds of lard from Chicago packers on the base price of $9 for hogs. The packers had made the lard from six cent hogs.

The plan announced urges farmers to produce more and heavier hogs; also all kinds of dairy products and poultry although poultry producers are protesting the 15c price as far too low. All of this will greatly increase the demand for feed but feed on the average farm today is scarce and hard to find. While the government fixes the value of corn at 61c it is asking around 78c for corn owned by the AAA under the loan plan.

Farmers should be cautious about the next step in accepting the proposed program for corn as there is one clause concerning the acreage that has not been explained and we are informed no ruling has been given at this time. It is as follows:

"Permitting producers in commercial corn areas to increase acreage up to their usual total without receiving

ARGENTINE BEEF FOR AMERICAN SOLDIERS

The farmers of Greene county could not have been given a greater shock than the statement of Mr. Joseph Mason, Chairman of the Greene County AAA Farm Program, before a local group of farmers and cattle feeders last Thursday evening that to answer a criticism of the national administration purchasing Argentine canned beef to feed American soldiers and sailors as good policy. In so doing Mr. Mason puts the interest of the American farmer as secondary to that of the Argentine producer.

There is no comparison as to quality of Argentine beef, grazed on wild pampas grass as compared with the native corn fed beef. Moreover Argentina has the "hoof and mouth" disease the year round and this meat is purchased at a few cent a pound and canned, not even under inspection such as is required in this country, and we are told it is good enough for not only Greene county boys in the army and navy but all others in the service.

Mr. Mason being head of the federal program and on salary, is a "good soldier" and obeying Washington orders. It is his duty to sell the wheat quota plan as he says "in order to maintain our Democracy."

Last week the Senate one day voted to prohibit the purchase of "hoof and mouth meat" on a tie vote, but over night one vote was found that had been listed "wrong" we read in the press. This permitted purchase of Argentine beef.

On Monday of this week the Senate voted again and once more the western senators, Republicans and uncontrolled Democrats, voted by a good majority against the New Deal plan but later the Roosevelt-Hull free trade idea prevailed after threats had been made against Democratic senators if they did not line up and support the purchase of Argentine canned beef for the army and navy.

SENATOR MORRIS SHEPHERD DEAD

The sudden death of Senator Morris Shepherd, 69, who for thirty-nine years has represented Texas in Congress and the Senate, died suddenly following an attack of cerebral hemorrhage Tuesday, in Washington.

Senator Shepherd became famous over the nation as the father of the prohibition measure that was repealed upon the ascendancy of the Roosevelt dynasty. Coming from Texas he of course represented the Democracy in that state and was regarded as a conservative. He, like a score or more southern senators disliked very much the Roosevelt political trend to Communism, but he had to swallow it and like it or be cut off from federal patronage.

The Senator at heart was dry and belived in the prohibition cause as necessary for the future of the nation. Here, he in his official capacity, met the determined planned program of Roosevelt to turn the nation over to the liquor interests. From that time on the Senator like many of his associates, had to battle between their consciences and political expediency forced on them by continued threats from the White House. It is said that continued worry over being forced to take up England's cause in the European war as chairman of the Senate Military Committee, or public humiliation from Roosevelt, brought about his condition.

The fate that has fallen to Senator Shepherd is what has fallen to other Democratic members of the present congress, all of which has been due to worry over being forced to follow orders, right or wrong, from the White House. Hitler is not the only Hitler in the world and more than one Democratic Congressman and Senator secretly express themselves against White House dictation under political threats.

If Al Capone had played politics as he engaged in the illegal liquor traffic and the means he used to force bootleggers to buy his product, he would be a piker as compared to the dictator methods of the Hyde Park Squire.

The whole nation seems concerned about the strike situation and there is reaction especially among the parents and friends of draftees who are in camp and will draw $21 a month while union industrial workers drawing eight, ten or twelve dollars a day are on strike asking for higher wages, shorter hours and vacations with pay. Letters to the newspapers in large as well as small communities reflect a bad feeling that draftees are not being treated fairly. The New Dealers do not show much sympathy for the draftees and less for parents, taking the view that they should give their services as a patriotic duty—the Roosevelt sell-out to aid Britain.

Labor circles are watching with interest the U. S. Steel strike and the one in the Ford auto plant. Washington correspondents say both Roosevelt and Perkins will do everything possible to load union labor and dictatorship on these two plants. General Motors fell for the Roosevelt demands more than a year ago and went 100 per cent union after a long series of strikes where that company suffered great losses. General Motors today has been favored with more than a half billion in war orders. In the early days of the Roosevelt administration, U. S. Steel bucked, but when the CIO got into the picture Roosevelt prevailed on a U. S. Steel head executive to give in. Wages went up, and so did prices of steel. U. S. also got all the government business and in addition the executive was given an honorary appointment to Rome, all for being a good boy and not opposing the White House.

The meat in the Ford labor nut is "Will Ford sign a contract to turn his plant management over to union leaders?" The argument around the conference table may go on for days and everybody agrees, but who is there that can make Ford put his name on the dotted line? The law does not compel an employer to sign. The New Deal has a law that plants can be commandeered and operated by the government. This is looked for in some sections with interest. Roosevelt has "run everything he has attempted in the ground with a red flag over it" and there is speculation as to what he will do making trucks, autos, tractors. More than one concern feels a chill on the spinal column when this is mentioned for factory management does not know the day when union labor might strike and the government under Roosevelt and Perkins operate same.

Left handed union management is best illustrated when a Cincinnati industrialist died, after many years of success. He left part of his estate to charity but the good will, business and manufacturing plant was left to his employees, many of whom had been officers and directors under his direction. Everything went well for several months when trouble developed among union labor working in a closed shop operated by union members as employees and stockholders. Many employees wanted higher wages out of the shop and the same methods were employed as with any corporate company. More money or we will strike. Even dividends did not interest the radicals who wanted more money irrespective of what happened to the company. They did not want money used to replace old machinery or any reserve of any kind. These radicals had the true Rooseveltian spirit in industrial management.

Newspapermen in Dayton have been having a picnic among themselves following exposure by the government attorneys of some of the things that took place in the big illicit bootleg ring that operated in Montgomery and Greene counties as headquarters for southwestern Ohio and southeastern Indiana. The storage and distribution house was near Wilberforce. The ring had a code of information that was amusing and titles of popular songs were used. "Has anyone seen Susie?" had a meaning of instruction as to delivery, the messages being sent by telegram. The answer would be in code something like this: "Tuesday, Bank Night." Meaning delivery on Tuesday but have the cash. The humming and whistling of the popular song "Has Anyone Seen Susie?" has been revived as a result of the testimony. The government is trying to convict four persons indicted by the federal grand jury. L. T. Marshall of this county and four attorneys from Dayton are defending the accused bootleggers. Calvin Crawford is representing the department of justice. Judge Nevin is presiding in the U. S. Court hearing the cases. The next time to tickle the newsmen was "Annie Doesn't Live Here Any More," meaning it is not safe to make delivery of the cut "alky."

The man that has the least to say today on public questions is none other than Wendell Willkie. His name is linked day after day with that of Roosevelt by speakers in congress, editorial comment and the radio, but for some unknown reason the former Republican candidate has gone into retirement following his trip abroad to return as a Roosevelt-King George selection to succeed the Britain war on the American people. Sen. Wheeler in Cincinnati before a huge crowd last Friday night charged that both Roosevelt and Willkie made campaign promises for aid for England "short of war." Now both have come into the open for open war at any cost. Since the Lend-Lease bill passed Roosevelt has dropped the "short of war" plea. Senator Wheeler compared the two candidates on this issue. He could have placed Willkie on the spot had he publicly insisted just what the Ireland chief executive told him when he made a visit to Erin—to prevail on little Ireland opening her ports to England for war supplies—and German submarines. Ireland for years was in slavery under the English heel and it took years of civil war to gain her independence. Willkie nor Roosevelt have ever referred to the trip to Ireland but Ireland has evidently stood pat, like Switzerland, and remains independent. At least she has denied England using her ports even at the request of the New Deal and Secretary Hull.

More than one farmer has commented, in our hearing, of the New Deal giving Argentina the contract for 20,000,000 pounds of pampas range grass fed beef for our boys in army camps. The New Deal says such a deal was under the "good neighbor policy," better known in Washington circles as absolute free trade. It burns farmers to hear Joe Mason defend the Argentine purchase, he being head of the AAA but drawing his salary by the trace of the Roosevelt administration. We get information this week from Washington that the Agricultural Department mail was so heavy with protests against both wheat and corn quotas, the corn quota was dropped last Friday. No information has been given out as to what will be done with the wheat quota. A glance at the figures again may bring out another announcement that a wheat quota is unnecessary due to the demand for wheat in England. The AAA committee in every county in the nation is a cog in the New Deal wheel and must act and do on instructions from Washington or be dropped from the salary list. Pleading for farm support for a wheat quota in the name of defense is far fetched and is not being relished by farmers who have had their sons drafted. As for the AAA it is a "Good Soldier," take orders, or get off the pay roll.

Automobile Club

Urges Safe Driving

With rainy April days bringing extra street traffic hazards to school children, the Greene County Auto club is part of its civic safety program, is distributing this month to elementary and junior high school teachers of this area, copies of the new A.A.A.-O.S.A. A. School Safety Poster, "On Rainy Days Be Alert Crossing Streets," Dilver Belden, Secretary of the club announces.

"These colorful posters, accompanied by loose-leaf graded lessons for teachers' use, are part of the 'Facing and Avoiding Danger' series of safety educational aids produced by the A.A.A. for use nationally, and which have been widely commended during the present school year," Mr. Belden said. "The lesson is one that adults may well take to heart, too."

"The poster, showing a boy and girl holding an umbrella high so as to see traffic on a rainy day, emphasizes the necessity for all those who use streets afoot to be especially alert on rainy days when visibility is reduced. Accident statistics showed that in 1939, 12,300 pedestrians lost their lives, and 260,000 were injured in traffic accidents during hours of darkness. Certainly a great number of these occurred during the rainy weather, when he pedestrian has his view obscured by an umbrella or a high coat collar, failed to see an approaching car, or the motorist, with view reduced by a faulty windshield wiper, dirty windshield, and rain on side windows, failed to see the person afoot. On such days, motorists need to reduce their driving speed, while walkers need to hold umbrellas high, when crossing streets and be especially alert for approaching cars, or turning cars that might skid."

Africa's jungle is filled with live when Bing Crosby, Bob Hope and Dorothy Lamour go safaring in Paramount's new melodic comedy, "Road to Zanzibar," which arrives Thursday at the Regent Theatre, in Springfield. Bing and Bob are a couple of carnival men barnstorming through Africa, trying to raise enough money to get back home. Bing thinks up the side-show stunts and Bob performs them—at risk of life and limb, for he's shot out of a cannon, frozen alive and electrocuted. They become prank-playing rivals when Dorothy Lamour comes into their lives, clad in a dress made of fern leaves. Captured by cannibals when they're separated from Dorothy in the African jungle, Bing and Bob give the savages some pointers in rhythm on the native drums. It's all fine until the cannibals decide the boys might not be white gods. It's up to Hope to prove they are, and he's thrust into a cage to wrestle a gorilla. Well, the gorilla doesn't fight fair or something, and the boys are released. The stew-pot, but escape through the patty-cake method. Featuring Una Merkel and Eric Blore, "Road to Zanzibar" was directed by Victor Schodinger.

They wore formal gowns of dotted swiss, fashioned floor-length, with short puffed sleeves. Miss Copeland's gown was pale yellow and she carried an arm bouquet of pink roses. Miss Shafer was in rose dotted swiss and her flowers were blue sweet peas.

Mrs. Mills' gown was aqua dotted swiss and she carried an arm bouquet of yellow daffodils.
